Dear Colleagues,

Return activities are among the most challenging aspects of integrated border management. They require utmost professionalism and the highest standards of conduct.

All Frontex operations and activities represent key values of the European Union – the rule of law and full respect of fundamental rights. Raising and harmonising ethical standards is key to providing a coherent and comprehensive response to the challenges of modern border management.

As the Executive Director of Frontex, the European Border and Coast Guard Agency, I expect all participants in return operations and return interventions coordinated or organised by Frontex to comply with this Code of Conduct. It ensures that the Agency remains the custodian of best practices for border control in Europe.

The Code of Conduct now includes return interventions, which allow the Agency to provide the appropriate technical and operational assistance to a Member State facing challenges in returning third-country nationals.

This document, which reflects the growing importance of returns within Frontex, was prepared in cooperation with the Frontex Fundamental Rights Office and Consultative Forum. It underlines our commitment to putting the respect of fundamental rights at the core of the Agency's activities.

I hope the Code of Conduct for Return Operations and Return Interventions coordinated or organised by Frontex will provide a useful set of standards and I count on your personal commitment and your sense of individual responsibility.

Fabrice Leggeri
Frontex Executive Director

PART I

2 Regulation (EU) 2016/1624 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 14 September 2016 on the European Border and Coast Guard and amending Regulation (EU) No 2016/399 of the European Parliament and of the Council and repealing Regulation (EC) No 863/2007 of the European Parliament and of the Council, Council Regulation (EC) No 2007/2004 and Council Decision 2005/267/EC (OJ L 251, 16.9.2016, pp. 1–76).

GENERAL PRINCIPLES

Article 4

Respect for Fundamental Rights

RO and RI are to be conducted in a humane manner and in compliance with fundamental rights as enshrined in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union and in other relevant international instruments, in particular human dignity, the right to life, the principle of non-refoulement, the right to asylum, the prohibition of torture and of inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, the right to liberty and security, the rights of the child, the best interests of the child, the rights to the protection of personal data and non-discrimination, and the right to respect for private and family life.

2. RO and RI are to be conducted without discrimination on any grounds such as gender, racial or ethnic origin, genetic features, language, religion or belief, nationality, political or any other opinion, membership of a national minority, property, birth, disability, age or sexual orientation or other status.
3. RO or RI must be suspended or terminated in whole or in part if the executive director considers that there are violations of fundamental rights or of international protection obligations that are of a serious nature or are likely to persist in accordance with Article 25(4) of the regulation.

4. In accordance with Article 27(4) of the regulation, Frontex's financial support to MS for the RO is conditional upon the full respect of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU.

Article 5

Safety in return operations and return interventions

Returnees' safety, as well as that of participants and crew members, is paramount during RO and RI. The captain of the aircraft/vessel or the head of RO/the competent authorities of the MS hosting an RI or Frontex, depending on the phase of the RO or RI, must suspend or terminate the RO or RI if they consider its continuation unsafe.

Article 6

Cooperation with returnees and duty to inform

1. The competent authorities of the OMS and of the PMS as well as participants, taking into account individual risk assessments, shall seek cooperation with each returnee at all stages of the RO or RI in order to avoid or limit the use of force to the minimum extent necessary.
2. The competent authorities of the OMS and of the PMS are expected to give sufficient and clear information to the returnees about the RO or RI.
3. The head of RO or the competent authorities of the MS hosting an RI, as applicable, ensure that information is provided about the possibilities to lodge a complaint concerning an alleged fundamental rights violation during the RO or RI, for example via the Frontex complaints mechanism in compliance with the applicable rules.

Article 7

Use of coercive measures

11. The use of coercive measures must be legal, necessary and proportional, not exceeding reasonable force, and with due respect to the returnee's rights, dignity and physical integrity. The use of coercive measures takes appropriate account of the individual circumstances of each person, such as their vulnerable condition.
2. Coercive measures may be used only when strictly necessary on returnees who refuse or resist removal or in response to an immediate and serious risk of the returnee escaping, causing injury to themselves or to a third party, or causing damage to property.
3. Coercive measures likely to compromise or threaten the possibility of the returnees to breathe normally are prohibited. Based on a dynamic risk assessment, the relevant escort leader periodically reviews the continuing necessity and proportionality of deploying coercive measures and particularly of applying means of restraint when these are used for prolonged periods.
4. The OMS and Frontex provide a list of authorised restraints in the operational documents in advance of the RO or RI. Where applicable, this list must be distributed to the relevant PMS prior to the RO or RI. The use of sedatives to facilitate the removal is forbidden without prejudice to emergency measures under medical supervision to ensure flight security.
5. No PMS participants are required to use coercive measures not allowed under their national legislation even if those measures are accepted by the OMS and by Frontex for that particular RO or RI.

6. Returnees must not be threatened in order for them to board a means of transport. They must not be punished for not having done so without prejudice to sanctions provided for by applicable legislation.

ORGANISATION OF THE REMOVAL

Article 8

Fitness to travel and medical examination

1. Returnees are to be removed only as long as they are 'fit to travel' at the time of the RO or RI. The OMS must refuse the participation of a returnee who is not fit to travel.
2. In a reasonable time prior to the RO or RI, the authorities of the MS are required to provide for the medical examination of a returnee, subject to their agreement, where they have a known medical condition or where medical treatment is required. Medical procedures should be carried out in a manner that observes the principles of medical confidentiality and dignity.
3. Relevant PMS must inform the OMS in advance about any medical condition of a returnee which would need special care and attention.
4. The processing of medical information must be carried out in line with applicable EU or national data protection legislation. The medical data may only be exchanged among doctors to the minimum extent necessary. Where medical information cannot be exchanged amongst doctors, escort leaders will enable the exchange of this data with due confidentiality.

Article 9

Selection and training

MS and, where applicable, Frontex carefully select participants taking into account their particular functions in RO and RI, and ensure that, prior to their participation, they receive appropriate training in relevant EU and international law, including on the protection of fundamental rights and access to international protection.

Article 10

Referrals

Participants must refer persons seeking international protection and vulnerable persons without delay to the competent authorities of the relevant MS that are responsible for considering their requests.

Article 11

Responsibility

Without prejudice to individual responsibility pursuant to Article 7 of the code of conduct applicable to all persons participating in Frontex operational activities, the competent authorities of the MS have the overall responsibility in accordance with general principles of state responsibility (e.g. for investigating and sanctioning actions of their staff), and according to Article 20 of this code as well as to Articles 29(5), 30(5) and 31(5) of the regulation, irrespective of whether the participants are state employees or are employed by a private contractor.

Article 12

Identification

All participants should be identifiable and fully distinguishable from returnees. For this purpose, official vests, armbands, badges or other distinguishing signs are required to be worn while on duty.

Article 13

Recording

Any form of recording during an RO or RI is possible only when specifically agreed between the relevant MS, Frontex and/or the company operating the means of transport and when in compliance with applicable legislation on the protection of personal data. Recording for private use is prohibited.

Article 14

Medical staff and interpreters

1. During each RO and RI at least one medical doctor provided by the OMS should be present.
2. The OMS provides appropriate medical staff and, depending on an assessment of the returnees' and escorts' needs and language skills, suitable interpreters during the RO or RI.
3. If necessary, the PMS may also provide its own medical staff in an RO or an RI.

MONITORING SYSTEM FOR FORCED-RETURN OPERATIONS

Article 15

Scope and nature

1. The monitoring of forced RO aims at gathering information on and reporting of fundamental rights compliance and, where appropriate, at making recommendations for the strengthening of the protection of returnees.
2. The monitoring system established in accordance with Article 8(6) of the return directive must be effective and must involve monitoring by organisations/bodies that are independent from the authorities enforcing return. MS taking part in a forced RO are required to ensure that they have an effective forced-return monitoring system in place.
3. The monitoring of forced RO should be carried out on the basis of objective and transparent criteria and should cover the whole forced RO, from the pre-departure phase until the hand-over of the returnees in the country of return or back to the country of departure.

Forced-return monitors

1. In order to ensure an effective monitoring system, forced-return monitors must have access to all relevant information concerning the RO, including:
 - a. timely communication of the date and time of the RO, the country(ies) of return and necessary travel documents, the number and origin of returnees, particularly including any forms of vulnerability, e.g. pregnant women, families with children, elderly people or persons with disabilities or medical conditions;
 - b. access to returnees, unless prevailing individual or collective risk assessment prescribes otherwise;
 - c. unimpeded access to all areas used for the RO.
2. Forced-return monitors have the right to attend the briefings prior to the RO as well as to participate in the debriefings where they may provide an account of the main findings.
3. Forced-return monitors may inform the head of RO and/or the escort leader(s) of any perceived irregularities but may not interfere with the planned execution of the RO.
4. When feasible and subject to prior agreement between the MS concerned, forced-return monitors may also monitor on behalf of other MS taking part in an RO.
5. Forced-return monitors may use the services of participating interpreters in order to communicate with the returnees.

FINAL PROVISIONS

Article 17

Data protection

The processing of personal data by participants must comply with the applicable EU and/or national data protection law.

Article 18

Awareness

1. MS ensure that participants are:
 - (a) acquainted with the content of this code prior to their deployment in the RO or RI;
 - (b) informed about the most up-to-date Frontex objectives, best practices and policies;
 - (c) acquainted with relevant referral mechanisms according to Article 10.
2. Frontex ensures that the content of this code is communicated to the national authorities of the countries of return.

Article 19

Reporting

Any participant in the RO or RI who has reasons to believe that a violation of this code or of fundamental rights has occurred is required to report it to Frontex via the appropriate channels, such as the Frontex serious incident report system.

Article 20

Investigation procedure and right to be informed

1. If the violation was committed by a person assigned by an MS, Frontex must communicate the facts to the competent national authority concerned that provides for an effective and independent investigation.
2. The competent authorities of the MS are expected to inform Frontex of the conduct and results of such an investigation.
3. The executive director may request information on the conduct and results of the investigation and may decide to inform the management board accordingly.
4. The returnee may request information from the competent authority and should be informed of the measures taken and of possible remedies.

Article 21

Sanctions

1. In the case of a violation of this code by a member of Frontex staff, the executive director must take adequate measures in accordance with the relevant applicable rules³.
2. If the violation was committed by a person deployed by an MS, the executive director must communicate

3 Regulation (EEC, Euratom, ECSC) No 259/68 of the Council of 29 February 1968 laying down the Staff Regulations of Officials and the Conditions of Employment of Other Servants of the European Communities and instituting special measures temporarily applicable to officials of the Commission (OJ L 56, 4.3.1968, pp. 1–7) and Frontex management board Decision No 23/2012 of 27 September 2012 adopting Frontex disciplinary procedure.

the incident to the responsible MS. The executive director expects the relevant authority of the MS to use its powers regarding the necessary disciplinary measures and, if applicable, to suspend or remove the person concerned from the respective pool for a defined period. Nevertheless, if the continued engagement of this person jeopardises the Frontex RO or RI in question, the executive director may decide to suspend or remove them from that activity.
